Editor's Window

In this issue of the paper there appear, by reason of the ironic coincidence which frequently plays with the affairs of men, three articles dealing in one way or another with church, religious and temporal matters. In one instance, the story deals with the conflict within a single congregation. In another instance, the story deals with the threatened renewal of conflict between a church and municipal government. In yet another, the story concerns the effort of a government official to distinguish between the secular and the spiritual manifestations of one man.

They should be read with grave attention, and not in the way we are sometimes inclined to brush over such articles.

Then, we should read once again John Locke's famous "Letter Concerning Toleration." I would quote but the beginning:

"HONORED SIR:

Since you are pleased to inquire what are my thoughts about the mutual toleration of Christians in their different professions of religion, I must needs answer you freely, that I esteem that toleration to be the chief characteristic mark of the true Church. For whatsoever some people boast of the antiquity of places and names, or of the pomp of their outward worship; others, of the reformation of their discipline; all, of the orthodoxy of their faith — for everyone is orthodox to himself — these things, and all others of this nature, are much rather marks of men striving for power and empire over one another than of the Church of Christ. Let anyone have never so true a claim to all these things, yet if he be destitute of charity, meekness, and good will in general towards all mankind, even to those that are not Christians, he is certainly yet short of being a true Christian himself . . ."

It was from Locke's "Second Treatise" that the Declaration of Independence derived not only its ideas, but much of its phraseology.

He is not too erudite, too obscure or too distant to be read with some immediacy in Carmel today.

Feathers . . . From the Shaft

BY ONE FLETCHER

All life is a passel of chowder, different by different cooks. You'll yodel its Lieberstrom louder forgetting what's writ in the books.

You splash in a spriglet of spices, a laugh and a tracing of tears; and stir in a song that suffices to feeble your frittering fears.

You can't go to hell in a Chevy, nor land up in heaven by boat; but happy the man who can levy some fun e'er he crosses the moat.

Don't listen to croakers or moaners, but mix up your own brew of beer—admitting you'll pull a few boners—you'll know you have lived while you're here.

Look, Ma: No Hands!

Never so alone and lonesome as this moment before the chute pops open. Sky diving will be part of the show in connection with the Fifth Annual Invitational Rugby Tournament slated for 23 and 24 of March at Carmel Junior High.

SKY DIVING AND RUGBY HEADLINE SPORTS WEEKEND

By Jack Morris

Ever jump from a hayloft onto a haystack? Ever take mother's umbrella and parachute off the barn? Mark Twain informed us that Tom Sawyer and his mob tried it, and certainly Booth Tarkington's Penrod had a go at it. So it has to be an old American custom.

It is also a true first for the Russians. They inaugurated a target-jumping contest for parachutists in July, 1930. By 1936, under government subsidy, 559 training towers and 115 sport parachute training stations were scattered throughout the Soviet Union.

THE TECHNIQUE

It was not until 1949 that France became seriously interested in the sport of controlled falls, but by 1950 the jumping frogs had perfected the technique now being used by United States sky tumblers. This stabilizing technique, which involves a pattern of arm and leg motions, enables the parachutist to control his flight as an airplane does, permitting him to dive and swoop about the sky until his altimeter or stop watch indicates he has reached the 2200-foot altitude. Then he opens his chute to end the free fall and starts a slow descent. On the ground there is a cross-shaped target, and now the competition is indeed keen as he manipulates his parachute through judicious use of the shroud lines and open paneling in the umbrella-like saucer overhead in order to land on or as near as possible to the target.

FUN FOR ALL

It appears to be fun for all the 700 addicts who range from professional men, such as doctors and lawyers, to Explorer Scouts and secretaries. Also grandmothers.

For such a seemingly luxurious hobby, the cost is much less than golf or horseback riding, or even martini sampling, which has been known to induce a few free falls itself. Each beginning jumper furnishes his own helmet, coveralls, boots and goggles; cost, under 30 dollars. Add about $25.00 for club initiation or training fees and you are outfitted and trained for about $50.00. About $2.00 per jump for the first ten jumps and you are a sky diver and parachutist. Certainly a couple of skiing weekends will eat up more than $75.00 before one even starts courting a snow bunny. And as

No Voice For Voters In Vacancies

Council Will Appoint To Elective Offices

The City Council last night on a 2-2 vote (Putnam, Buffington, aye—Blanks, Whittlesey, no) failed in several maneuvers to find a way of accepting Francis Whitaker's resignation from the council, which Whitaker has stated, in a letter for some time in the possession of Mayor Whittlesey, would be effective at the adjournment of the regular meeting of the Council on 3 April, 1963.

Even though Whittlesey eventually agreed to the filing of the letter with the Council, the same two-two split blocked Putnam's motion to then file it with the Clerk, a necessary step, since the Government Code provides that the resignation of a municipal officer must be in writing and must be filed with the Clerk of the governing body (in this case, the City Clerk).

Putnam's maneuver obviously was for the purpose of spreading on the record much of the subrosa maneuvering which has been going on ever since Whitaker's intention to resign became a badly-kept secret. It may also have been intended to make it a little less difficult for Whitaker to slip out of his commitment, were he to change his mind before 3 April. The law in such matters, in the only decision in California, one reached by the State Supreme Court in 1867, holds that he could change his mind at the last moment. Ethics, of course, are another matter, and this is what Putnam appeared to be striking at. At any rate, he announced himself as unwilling to agree to the holding of an executive session of the Council to discuss replacement of Whitaker—or an election—on a probability. He wanted a certainty, or something as near to that as he could nail down. He had a hammer, but Blanks and Whittlesey swiped the nails.

In the instance of the City Clerk the parallel was the same, but the Council, on advice of City Attorney John Morse, found some obscure difference. At any rate, a motion to accept the resignation of the Clerk carried. Although it was probably meaningless—since the Code does not provide for anyone to accept a written resignation properly filed (with the Clerk himself, in this extraordinary instance)—it at least cleared the air of some resolute hesitancy, and permitted the Council to agree to go into executive session, to discuss privately the possible successor to the Clerk, who has stated in writing his intention that his resignation be effective at 5:00 p.m. on the 1st of April.

In the instance of the Clerk, the matter is somewhat more urgent. At the moment his resignation is

Pax Romana

Dr. K. Fillmore Gray is still pastor of the venerable Church of the Wayfarer.

This was not determined by an election held last Thursday, in which 252 members of the congregation beat back with their ballots the petition of 25 persons asking for Dr. Gray's removal, which mustered the support of only 188 votes. Dr. Gray's continued ministry is the sole determination of Bishop Donald Harvey Tippet, Resident Bishop of the San Francisco Area of the Methodist Church, whose authority is peremptory and not subordinate to the will of congregations. The vote could, therefore, at best be termed advisory.

But whether the congregation will be submissive to the will of the Methodist Church is yet another issue, removed but not remote from the four-year dispute over Dr. Gray's ministry. For 59 years the Church had operated as a community church which relied upon the Methodist Church for its ministers and much of its spiritual and administrative guidance. The historical determination to be non-denominational was apparently clearer to some than to others. And as the continuous turmoil prevailed, a segment of the membership, perhaps taking the denominational issue directly and the matter of Dr. Gray indirectly, went to Superior court with a petition that the court determine whether or not the Methodist Church should have dominion over the institution.

It is ironic and seemingly contradictory, but the determination of the court could settle not only the temporal matter of possession of the land, buildings and income, but the spiritual matter as well.

The recent vote indicated, though not altogether clearly, that the Methodist adherents have some sort of numerical supremacy—although the vote was supposedly on the issue of Dr. Gray as a pastor—because negotiations, which may bear fruit within the next few weeks, are proceeding towards an out-of-court settlement, and further taking of depositions has been suspended.

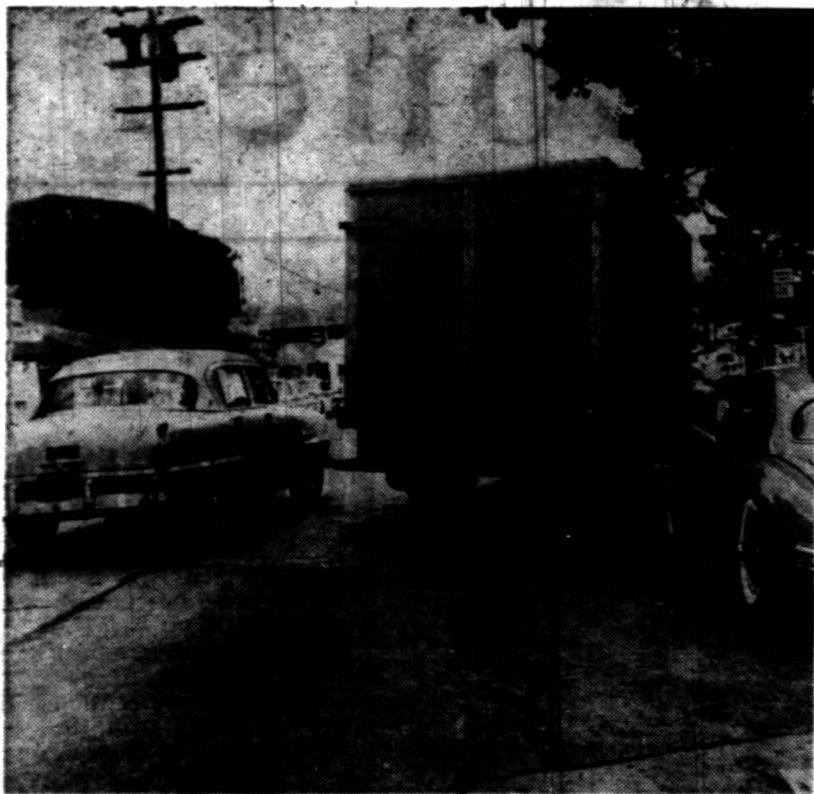

If Methodist dominion is determined in one way or another, a grave question would then confront people whose participation in the conflict has been so great, or whose determination has become so firm, that they could no longer worship in their ancient church with peaceful souls. Many of the 700-member community fear that a complete schism and the founding of a new church would be the only ultimate solution; certainly, such a decision is one which the eight-member executive committee of the church league, which has charged Dr. Gray with responsibility for the seemingly irreconcilable rift, may have to consider.

The election, which resolved nothing but a more firm definition of the partisanship separating the members, was brought about by a petition signed by 25 members whose names the committee has steadfastly refused to

The Second Story

BAD, BAD MANNERS — This delivery truck had two spaces available on San Carlos Street, but the driver chose only to head in, leaving the tail of the truck thrust out into the street, the source of inconvenience to cars, and the start of a traffic snarl.

TRAFFIC

On the narrow streets of Carmel there often occurs during the business day a situation which provokes anger, frustration and bewilderment: the double parking of delivery trucks.

On San Carlos Street between Ocean and Fifth, and particularly on Dolores between Ocean and Eighth, the scene is often chaotic, particularly when trucks in each lane are parked, and motorists either unable or unwilling to thread their way around, simply stop, baffled and irritated, piling up behind one another.

The trucker is exercising the privilege of an extraordinary exception in the Highway Code (Sec. 22502) which says that every vehicle must park at the curb except "commercial vehicles when loading or unloading merchandise or passengers."

Frequently the motorist whose patience is exhausted flies to Police Chief Clyde Klaumann, who is powerless to act, except against abuses. "The truckers have a strong lobby in Sacramento," he says in explaining the unusual immunity of commercial vehicles.

"You just don't have enough people lobbying up there for you."

Perhaps it is the abuses which the residents of a fairly patient and tolerant community object to:

ITEM—The truck (license L58-695) parked last Friday in a loading zone on San Carlos for one hour and 10 minutes, unattended, taking up space for other trucks.

ITEM—The truckdrivers engaged in loading or unloading who ignore a motorist parked at the curb waiting to move out, and arrogantly go about their business, letting the motorist sit and stew under the contemptuous treatment;

ITEM—The soft drink truck on Ocean Avenue, yesterday, which spanned three empty stalls, not using them and denying them to others.

"We go after abuses such as these when we know of them," Klaumann asserts, "but the truckers complain that the city doesn't give them enough spaces in which to park."

To the long-haul drivers of the big rigs encountered in the inter-city highways, these discourtesies are practically unknown. Their courtesy and regard for automobilists is legendary, a vivid contradiction of the insensible treatment too many delivery truck drivers hand out in this village.

And the problem is not one simply of raw sensibilities and bad manners. When jams occur, traffic is stalled, and access to the street is blocked by a clutter of cars and trucks; the city's safety services squirm. Fire, police and ambulance vehicles couldn't begin to get to the scene of an accident, one occurring either on the street messed up, or nearby, if the street were to be used for access to the scene—which San Carlos frequently is.

The answer, if there is one, lies only partially with local government. Its best solution probably rests in the committee rooms of the legislature in Sacramento, and there stalk the quick and alert trucking lobbyists, who know their way around.

SCHOOLS

Gift

Plans for the gift to Stephens College (Columbia, Missouri) of the Perry-Mansfield School of Theatre and Dance, and the Perry-Mansfield Camps for Girls, both at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, were recently announced jointly by Miss Charlotte Perry and Miss Portia Mansfield, owners and co-directors, and Dr. Seymour A. Smith, president of Stephens.

Miss Perry and Miss Mansfield, who are winter-time Carmel residents, have transferred an initial parcel of land as a gift to Stephens College; they expect to transfer the remainder, including the school and camps, to the College during the next four years.

The school has nurtured many of the leaders of modern dance and theater, including Julie Harris and Lee Remick; the faculty and staff at the school have included

HEALTH

Shots

Vaccination shots and boosters given to children don't last forever, as many people seem to think. Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine, in its current issue includes this checklist for up-to-date protection for adults.

—Tetanus. Immunity lasts about three to five years and everyone should get a booster that often.

—Smallpox. Immunity lasts about three years. Revaccination is necessary for travel abroad and desirable in other special circumstances.

—Diphtheria. Booster shots recommended every three to four years.

—Polio. The length of immunity is not known. At the very least, get a booster one year after the first series of shots and consult your doctor about needs in later years.

—Influenza. When an epidemic is due—or better yet, routinely each fall—get the flu vaccination recommended by your doctor.

—Whooping cough. Adults don't ordinarily need immunization against pertussis if a full course of shots and boosters were taken in childhood. Otherwise, it's not too late to start.

Three more, for foreign travelers, are: yellow fever—a shot every six years for travel in areas where it is prevalent; typhoid fever—an annual booster after a primary course of three inoculations; typhus—a booster every four years after a primary course of two inoculations.

BUSINESS

Racket

The California Association of Life Underwriters is warning Californians they stand a good chance of being fleeced if they succumb to some of the cheerful boardsides flooding the mails from out-of-state, non-admitted insurance companies.

Some of these offers have shown up in Carmel lately. They usually state that no agent will call, and that simply by signing the card you will receive the greatest insurance bargains known to man.

No agent will call because no agent can, since the firm is not qualified in California. Claim settlements are often impossible to negotiate; some companies have never paid a claim. Insurance written with these non-admitted firms is about as sound a gamble as Canadian gold mining stocks.

Eating Your Words

The U. S. Government has granted patent rights for a new process expected to have major impact on the nation's second largest industry—printing.

Electrostatic or pressureless printing, as the process is called, permits rapid, inexpensive, and high quality impressions to be made on virtually any material—from building bricks to fresh fruits and vegetables.

The newly-patented process involves screening dry ink particles instead of wet ink onto the material to be printed. The ink particles are attracted to the object or surface by an electrically charged backing plate. The design or image to be printed forms the other electrode plate in the system.

The ink particles are then fused permanently on the surface by heat or chemical treatment.

The equipment involved is simple and lightweight compared with conventional printing presses. The new process eliminates normal drying time requirements; eliminates need for expensive chemical treatment of paper or other surfaces now used to improve ink receptivity; and makes it possible to print on both sides of paper—or burlap, for that matter—simultaneously.

But the key to the broad application possibilities of electrostatic printing lies in the fact that, unlike all conventional processes, no physical contact is necessary between the printing plate and the surface to be printed.

"This means," Flax said, "that we can print on almost any object or surface you can think of. Variations in size and shape or roughness aren't a problem. We can achieve full color reproduction on eggshells or plastic containers, on metal cans or corrugated cardboard."

In addition to conventional printing operations, the firm expects to expand the horizons of printing to wholly new areas. "Printing drug names and dosages on uncoated pills is a job conventional methods can't handle," Flax said. "This new process can do it safely and economically." Research and development work is continuing at Stanford Research Institute, at the Electrostatic Printing Corporation's Laboratories, and by licensees of the process.

EVENTS

Concourse

The gate prize for the 13th annual Concours d'Elegance has been delivered to Community Hospital in an armored truck.

It is a $2,500 diamond pin to be given to some lucky purchaser of a $1 ticket to the Concours, 13 April, at Pebble Beach.

Proceeds from the Concours d'Elegance go to the Community Hospital Auxiliary, which has contributed $25,000 to the building fund of the new hospital on Carmel Hill.

Last year the invitational event attracted some 4,000 spectators to the 18th green at Pebble Beach where they saw the many vintage and modern cars on exhibit. Overall winner, who took home the first place silver bowl with his 1913 Rolls Royce Silver Ghost once used by the Prince of Wales, was Alton Walker of Pebble Beach.

Mrs. Rody Holt, general chairman of the event for the Auxiliary, is being assisted by Mrs. Robert Mackay Brown, ticket chairman; Mrs. Gordon K. Reid, president of the Auxiliary; Mrs. Thomas Craigie, Mrs. Harry Leonard, Mrs. William A. Smith and Mrs. James Hatlo.

Tickets for the Concours may be purchased from I Magnin's, where this week the $2,500 diamond pin is on display.

Asian Challenge

Plans for the seventeenth World Affairs Conference at Asilomar have been announced by Mortimer Fleishacker, Jr., president of the World Affairs Council of Northern California. The three-day conference, slated for 3, 4 and 5 May, will be under the chairmanship of Dr. Edward W. Strong, Chancellor of the University of California at Berkeley. The subject of this year's conference is "Asia: Challenge to the United States."

The Conference, which has firmly established itself as a local institution and the conclusions of which are respected and sought throughout the world, will examine such questions as the Red Chinese-Soviet rift, Japan's role in Asia, Asian leadership, Asian communism, the Asian economy and population, nationalist expansion and conflict, and United States policies in Asia.

Toynbee

Arnold J. Toynbee, the Englishman whose name is synonymous with the word "history" throughout the civilized world, will lecture at Monterey Peninsula College Friday, 15 April.

The author of the twelve-volume work, "A Study of History," will lecture on "A Study of Contemporary History" at 8 p.m. in the Armory on campus.

The public is invited to attend without charge, but admission will be by ticket only. Tickets may be secured by addressing a request to the MPC Evening Division and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope before 29 March. There is a four-ticket limit for each request, and they are going fast.

GOVERNMENT

Falling Trees

During the past two months the Street Department has planted over 300 young pine trees throughout the residential area, part of the determined and extensive reforestation program of the City.

But the seeming vulnerability of some of the trees planted 3 or 4 years ago to blowing over, revealed in the winter storms, has given rise to a fear that the City tree-planting program might be breeding a generation of unanchored monsters. Over 30 young, flourishing pines averaging twelve feet in height were blown over intact, like solemn rows of lead soldiers, and had to be staked up again. What will happen when they are 60 or 70 feet tall?

Street Superintendent William

Askew's response is reassuring. "Those trees simply haven't had time to establish their root system. We've been watering them heavily to force their growth, and the tops have grown faster than the roots. We're propping them up again and, given time, the root structure will spread out and give them a secure anchor."

Youth Center Fashion Show

The Carmel Youth Center will benefit from a spring fashion show tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Center. Seventy-four Carmel High School and Carmel Junior High School students (including 14 boys) will model clothes from Gladys McCloud's shop and Boys' Town.

Mr. Robert Forbes is arranging the music. Kitty Bucquet, Ken Edwards, Jim Markowitz, Scott Hennessy, and Charlie Davie will usher. Guitar-playing and singing will be offered by Carlin Arriola, Carl Burger, Jay Lang, Al Nishimura, and Bob Wells. Linda Hudder and Joy

Connel will preside over the snack-bar buffet.

A squad of general workers, in charge of decorating and clean-up chores, include Karen Kalber, Linda Miller, Clayton Hilbert, Ken Edwards, Pete Braudrick, Jim Markowitz, Jim Kelley, Charlie Davis, Mike Springer, Donnie Clark, and Terrence Tweedie. Eighteen adult volunteers have also offered their services.

Host Jack Hinchcliff and hostess Nancy Baxter hope everyone will come to the fashion show and help support Carmel's Youth Center.

Latin America

"Problems Facing United States Foreign Policy in Latin America" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Thomas F. McGann before the World Affairs Council on 29 March at 8 p.m. in the Carmel High School cafeteria. The public is invited.

Dr. McGann is professor of Latin American history at the University of Texas, and is, this year, visiting professor at Stanford University.

SOUNDS FROM UNDER A WET ROCK

"Down Carmel way, recently, Senator Fred Farr of that fabled city by the sea offered a bill to preserve the mountain lion, or cougar, from extinction.

The cash bounty on these tawny denizens of the forest currently runs $50 for male and $60 for females (one of the few areas, incidentally, where the female is certain to come out in the upper financial brackets.)

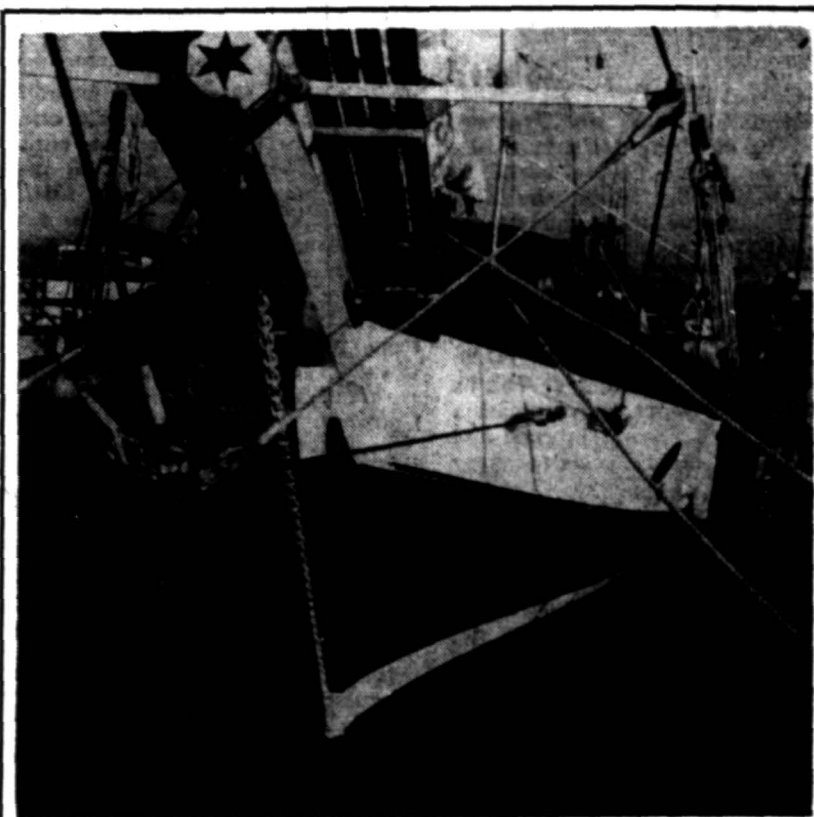

At any rate, in a place like Carmel, where poodles and cats wear coats and hats, and where peanuts are delivered to the squirrel feeding stations before the average householder even has his own breakfast, such a bill as 'Cougar Conservation' is to be expected."

The Placer Herald.

LONG BEACH CALIF. (20 March) — California leads the nation in canned foods and should boast about it, according to William A. Free, Sr., President of the National Canners Association. "This is a story you should spread to your fellowtownsmen, your schools and women's clubs and civic organizations. With that kind of business leadership, you can hold your heads high in the knowledge that you make a major contribution to civilizations."

(National Canners Assoc. press release.)

Sky Diving And Rugby

for falling in the snow, BROTH-ER!

A SAFE SPORT

In the old days when barnstorming wingwalkers thrilled the multitudes at county fairs, an occasional sky diver operated, but without the present-day knowledge of chute manipulation and the method of using the body and arms and legs as air foils to control direction.

A membership in the Parachute Club of America automatically includes property damage and public liability coverage. Apparently, no reliable insurance company requires additional premiums or excludes coverage for sports parachutists, so it must be easier and safer than it looks, because you know those insurance companies — they rarely lose a bet. Or make a bad one.

Most of the local jumps are made in the Hollister area, due to the favorable climactic conditions. But the PCA has a Monterey office and is ready and eager with advice.

This show should provide a thrilling and picturesque adjunct to the Rugby matches at the Junior High School field at the entrance to Carmel Valley on Saturday and Sunday.

The matches start at 9 a.m. Saturday, 24 March, on the Carmel Junior High field and continue until 4:30 p.m. Sunday the stretch is about the same with festivities planned to end at five o'clock.

Sixteen teams competing in true amateur manner means the play will be fierce and intense.

The Universities Club of Berkeley will be defending against a field composed of Pomona College; Kats Club, Vancouver, B. C.; Peninsula Ramblers; San Diego State; San Diego Golden; San Francisco Olympic Club; University of Oregon; Fullerton J. C.; Western Washington; Southern California; University of the Pacific; Meraloma of Vancouver, B. C.; University Club of L. A.; Oregon and Stanford.

YACHTING

The monthly handicap race last Sunday sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club had wind-swept, sunny blue water and saw Jon Konigshofer's Wild Wind, skippered by Harvey Kilpatrick, round the first mark in the lead. After that she never was headed.

It was one of the most notable races of the early season. The first three boats across the line also took the first three places on corrected time, although not in the same finishing order.

Frank O'Neal's Sayonara made a desperate run, under Jim Womble, to catch Wild Wind on the last leg, but blew a jib in the effort. Finally she crossed the line in second place, finishing third in corrected time.

The schooner Altura, commanded by Bruce Harris, took third place and first in corrected time.

It is seldom these days one sees a two-master so far up in the standings, so she must have been sailed exceedingly well.

In Class B, which is for boats under 24 feet, the Mermaids cleaned up the first three spots. No. 26, under A. Smith, took first; No. 6, skippered by Harvey Kilpatrick, second; and No. 10, handled by Dr. James Rodda, finished third.

It was a fun race, with perfect weather conditions, that saw the 24 entries make the 13-mile course an action event with two windward legs and two runs.

Incidentally, we have been notified that Harvey Kilpatrick spells his name with one "i" and not two, as in Rockwell.

GOLF

The 36-hole semi-finals in the Peninsula Open Championship will be played next Sunday, 24 March, on the Del Monte Golf Course.

Wheeler Farish, Jr. of Pebble Beach, takes on Dick Hill, while Bob Smith, Monterey City Champion, tangles with Adrian Montell in the other match.

New Pro

Lou Miller, proprietor of the Airport Driving Range on the Salinas Highway, has signed on Mark Hirzel to handle the teaching chores. Hirzel, originally from Baltimore, Maryland, where he worked with Johnny Bass at Clifton Park, has more recently been teaching at Sunken Gardens, a par-three course just outside of San Francisco.

He also served as professional at Casper Country Club and Riverton Country Club, both in Wyoming.

He is not a stranger to the Peninsula, having already spent three winters here as pro at Miller's stop-and-sock. But like so many others, he has found the climate and educational facilities much to his liking. Mark specializes in group teaching and is currently negotiating with local groups, including the youth centers, to set up a summer class schedule.

BASEBALL

Little League

The Carmel Little League had their 1963 sign-up ceremonies at Carmel Junior High Monday evening, 18 March. Unlike the Giants, the Dodgers and other major league clubs, there was little or no trouble with recalcitrant ball players, whose usual spring theme is "we want more dough."

On the contrary, the rush to initial their '63 contracts resulted in a perfect welter of prospective ball players, their little brothers, their littler sisters, harried parents and harassed officials.

Unfortunately, this spring ritual of the great American game of baseball took place in the cafeteria at the school, and the question of money soon came up. After staring in open-mouthed awe at the vending machines, the small fry quickly realized the score and shortly one could hear, "Dad, let me please have a dime for some ice cream?"

"Ice cream? Why, you just got up from the dinner table."

"Yea, I know, Dad. But I didn't have any ice cream. Please can I, Dad? Huh, Dad?" And Dad lost another argument before the season even started.

Although the sign-up was heavy, a few familiar faces were missing, and the player's agent, "Diz" Newman, advises those who missed last night to be sure to bring along copies of their birth certificates to the tryouts at Carmel Junior High on 6-13-20 April.

Pony League

A determined effort is under way by the officials of Carmel's Pony League to line up sponsors for two or three teams before the league sign-up takes place on 25 March from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at Carmel Junior High. At this time, ball players 13 and 14 years of age will be expected to pay their one dollar registration fee and three dollars insurance premium.

The boys will be covered by insurance going to and coming from the ball park and also while playing or practicing.

Tryouts will be held on the Junior High playing field from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on 30 March and 6 April for positions on one of the six teams composing the league.

George Macy, spokesman for the Pony League, also announced that the regular season is scheduled to start with one morning game at 9 a.m. on 4 May, in the Pony League Park, near the Mission San Carlos.

HUNTING

A recent release from the Fish and Wildlife Service states that the curtailed hunting season of 1962 served its purpose in preserving waterfowl breeding stock. The annual midwinter survey carried out in the Central Flyway by aircraft, car, boat and even snowplane, tells us that 15 percent more waterfowl were seen this winter than in 1962.

What they fail to tell us is that there is NO LIMIT on the kill in Mexico. With hundreds of sportsmen going to Mexico from the United States and Canada, and emulating ex-President Eisenhower's recent 45-bird kill, all of the effort to take a bird count up here is bewildering.

Days Before Yesterday

25 MARCH, 1923

DON'T PASS THE BUCK, GENTLEMEN

Demands are increasingly insistent that immediate action be inaugurated to put into good condition that portion of the highway between Carmel and Monterey outside of both city limits, and also those parts within the city limits.

These poor stretches of road are a disgrace to the whole Monterey Peninsula. Not only that. With the ever-increasing travel over the hill the condition of the road is a menace to life and property.

GRANDMOTHER AND GRANDDAUGHTER HAVE JOINT BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

A combined birthday party for Mrs. Julia Ammerman, 67, and her granddaughter, Julia McEldowney, 11, was held at the McEldowney residence on Wednesday evening. Among those present were Gertrude and Ruth Tyler, Mildred

CAMPFIRE GIRLS ENJOY OFFICIAL OATING

About forty lively girls hiked up to Paradise Park last Saturday for an afternoon of games, races, a picnic supper and a marshmallow toast around a big bonfire.

Paradise Park is an ideal spot for a picnic, being sunny and level and grassy. There is a large clearing in the pines where the races were held.

ANNOUNCEMENT — Hereafter and until further notice, the DAVIS MARKET will make two deliveries a week to Carmel — Tuesdays and Saturdays. No order less than $2.50 delivered to the house (includes meat, groceries, fruit and vegetables). However, if the order is for meat alone, we are not justified in delivering it to the house—it will be left at Goold's office at your own risk. This will no doubt appeal to Carmel people, as it will not cost anything for extra service.

Pine Needles

Ralph Arnot was down from Oakland for the week end to visit his parents . . . Sherman Woolf, Monterey attorney, has taken unto himself a partner. John Thompson, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, is the man . . . A motor cop would find plenty to do on San Carlos highway between the "Go Slow" signs near the school house. Cars are being driven there at forty and fifty miles an hour, and several bad accidents have narrowly been averted . . . Mr. and Mrs. Armin Hansen have returned to the peninsula. They have been three months in New York, where Mr. Hansen had a very successful exhibition . . . Clinton Scollard is again in our midst, having returned from Los Angeles in time to play first base on one of the Abalone League ball clubs last Sunday . . . Johann Hagemeyer, photographer pre-eminent, has returned to Carmel . . . Winsor Josselyn has resumed his moving picture work in Culver City.

LAW IN ACTION

INFORMATION, PLEASE

The law favors open government records and papers to keep the people informed about their government.

Yet another policy makes some documents secret. A government's dealings with some people should be secret. For example, your income records must be kept secret to encourage full disclosure of your earnings to the tax collector.

The government keeps many public records. Your county recorder has facts about deeds, leases, bonds, property tax assessments, and the like. Your county clerk keeps files of business incorporations, those doing business under fictitious names, partnerships, lawsuits, probates, guardianships, and many other legal facts.

The state and county health departments have vital statistics of births, marriages, divorces, and of other personal information. The police keep records of arrests and like information. The Department of Motor Vehicles has facts on car ownership, driving abilities, and traffic citations. The public schools keep one's educational record.

Some agencies report facts about the professions or businesses they license.

Other records are public such as the acts of the courts, public officials, and the Legislature. Adoptions are confidential.

The government also keeps private documents in public places such as your request for licenses, permits and zoning variances.

Some other private papers belong to the government alone and are not, as a rule, public. Preliminary investigations do not lead to action. As a rule, the public may not see an investigation of a charge against a licensed businessman unless it leads to some action. As a rule, auditors who examine private books may not lawfully tell what they find.

But the aim is to have a free flow of facts to the well informed citizen.

CARMEL VALLEY MEMOIRS OF JOE HITCHCOCK

BY MARION CRUSH

INTRODUCTION

He is known as "Mr. Carmel Valley." He's our Joe Hitchcock, a living legend. At eleven every morning and three each afternoon, Joe can be seen riding his horse, Laurel, to the Village. Old pioneers, new residents and virtually all the children know him and wave or speak.

Most communities have an old-timer who can come up with endless stories of the past. But few communities are fortunate enough to have a Joseph J. Hitchcock, a man who has accepted the marvels of progress but has sought to preserve the history, beauty, and life of the past. Unlike most old-timers, Mr. Hitchcock has put in writing his experiences, his friends, and historical developments of the area in which he lives. Mr. Hitchcock graduated from the eighth grade of Colton Hall School in Monterey, California. He has not had the education which most people are required by law to have today. Yet he has written his story — an accomplishment few people can boast.

No better introduction can be found than in his own words. "During my growing up years while attending old Colton Hall School, one poem which took my fancy read,

"Backward, turn backward,
Oh time in your flight.
Make me a child again,
Just for tonight."

"Little did I think that after all these years, I would be doing just that. When you have reached the Saturday of life and it is getting late at night, you have to take stock of the years that have passed and wonder if you used them to the best advantage. In looking back for this inventory, the childhood memories have not faded but stand out as pleasant reminders of those happy years that molded the future I am now enjoying."

(Joe Hitchcock was born on the old Hatton Ranch on 9 January, 1881. His maternal grandparents were Portuguese. His grandfather, Antonio Victorine, married Maria Dutra, then came to California from the Azores during the gold rush era. Failing to make a success in his search for gold, he bought a whaling company at Point Lobos and sent for his family, who had remained in the Azores. He continued whaling, and turned occasionally to carpentry and masonry. Some of the houses he built are still standing in this area.

Hitchcock's paternal grandfather, Lt. Isaac Hitchcock, was in the landing party of Commodore John Drake Sloat which came ashore in Monterey on 7 July, 1846, to seize Alta California for the United States. He remained in Monterey after his discharge from the Navy and acquired extensive land holdings in the Arroyo Seco area.

Joe Hitchcock is a man as endlessly fascinating as the romantic history which surrounds him as a man and passes in colorful pageant before the inspection of his memory.

The Pine Cone is justifiably proud to be permitted to commence publication of his warm and entrancing recollections. They will appear hereafter every other week, alternating with the pleasant column, "The Sur Coast," by Elizabeth Fuller Jones.)

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

A Bible lesson on the subject of "Matter" will be read this Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel.

Among the many Scriptural selections, will be this citation from II Corinthians (5:8): "We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord."

Other passages will bring out the Christian Science teaching that all matter is a "graven image," a temporary, limited, delusive sense of things that must finally give way before the consciousness of ultimate, spiritual reality created by God. Included is this sentence from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 14): "Become conscious for a single moment that Life and intelligence are purely spiritual, neither in nor of matter, and the body will then utter no complaints."

Letters ... to The Editor

WAYFARER DISPUTE

Dear Sir:

My position in the Church of the Wayfarer as a new member was subjected to the crossfire of two groups, whose objectives seemed to be crystallized in the retention or the release of our minister. While ostensibly this may have seemed to be a simple matter to be settled merely by a "Yes" or "No" vote, the majority prevailing, there were underlying cross-currents which pointed up a much more complex situation.

Being new in the church, I felt that perhaps my view might be somewhat more objective than if I had been involved in the preliminary controversy.

As I see the picture, it would appear that we have a minister of unusual capabilities, intellectual integrity and moral fibre, whose stamina and character have been forged in a fire fed through the years by dissident church members.

This leads me to believe that as people have picked at the stature of that man, they have greatly enhanced and magnified his sterling qualities of leadership and outstanding devotion to his church and to the ministry. It was from these qualities shown by Dr. Gray, that I was moved to join this church recently.

When one reflects upon the Lenten season and the coming of Easter, and imagines that if Christ would possibly return to Carmel and view His adherents taking a stand against one another, against their minister, and dividing the church, He might be chagrined at such a lack of understanding and love. These animosities, and the misunderstanding of the central concepts of the church-universal as reflected in interdenominational and ecumenical awareness, would indeed amaze him.

It would seem better perhaps for us to realize that the main theme of the Protestant Church should be the Trinity and the Bible, and not the outward trappings, personalities, buildings, denominations, and the like. We can be just as good Christians whatever the label—Congregational, Episcopal, Lutheran, Baptist, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, or Methodist. The label in this case being Methodist does not prevent us from joining together under its aegis and still maintaining a good united community Church.

G. Wellington Merrifield
P.O. Box 4412
Carmel, California.

HANKY-PANKY

Dear Sir:

You did it.
We did not know you had the intestinal fortitude to give the Council a "dig" regarding the Clerkship.

What a lot of pussyfooting, what a lot of off-color and odious business. How did they expect to get away with it? You are to be complimented on your expose; hope it works.

What has (Hugh) Bayless got to deserve such favoritism? What has (Arthur) Plaxton not got, that he should be passed over and overlooked?

Doing such as this, and these, gives our democratic process and our representative government the black eye it deserves when responsible persons fail in their responsibilities.

(Name Withheld.)

WHAT KIND ARE THIS?

Dear Sir:

We "Scandahoovians" do not know much English, but we have been taught that the multiple "kind" can not be used with the singular "a proposition."

Twelve-hundred members are eligible to vote. The membership will convene under the gravel of Board President Vernon F. Hurd at 3:00 p.m., in the hospital dining room.

STATE Income TAX Question

QUESTION: Should I file my State personal income tax return on a regular Form 540 or the simplified Form 540A?

ANSWER: State Controller Alan Cranston, chairman of the Franchise Tax Board, says you can qualify for use of the simplified, card Form 540A if:

—Your gross income for 1962 was less than $15,000, and — Your income consisted entirely of wages, dividends, and interest.

You may elect to either itemize your deductions on Form 540A, take the standard deduction, or use the Optional Tax Table.

The long Form 540 should be used if your income does not meet the above requirements or if you claim the status of head of household, a tax credit for income taxes paid to other states, a retirement income credit, or you were a non-resident of California for all or part of the year.

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Due to the hike in postal rates, this library is forced to raise the amount collected on fines for overdue books on which a notice or notices have been sent. If a book has been overdue long enough to have had notices sent, a 10-cent penalty will be added to the fine to help cover postage costs. We wait for two weeks before sending a notice, because the majority of overdue books will be returned during that time without a notice being sent. It's a matter of staff time as well as cost of postage and printed forms. We send two postal cards as first and second notices. For a third notice we use a printed form which is mailed in an envelope, and finally we send a bill for the price of the book. We have been known to squander quite a sum of money in staff time and postage in our efforts to get a careless borrower to bring back books. This 10-cent penalty will help us recoup our losses along this line. The thing is, of course, that in the main it is the same people who fail to return their books. The same names appear over and over again on overdue notices. Everyone keeps books overdue now and then. But the majority of overduers are the same ones month after month. So look out for the added 10 cents! And just for the fun of it, start bringing your books back on time. That's what the library wants, not the money.

The seven astronauts have done a book together, with the help of Life magazine and John Dille. It is called We Seven and is illustrated with photographs, naturally enough, since Life was concerned with it. This is the inside dope on their flights, their lives, their families, everything.

Kings, Courts, and Monarchy is the title of a new book by Harold Nicolson, beautifully illustrated in color. This is a study of kingship from earliest times. The author is an English diplomat and husband to Victoria Sackville-West. He discusses the king as a god, as a magician, as a warrior, and also all the ways men succeeded to the throne down through the ages. This is a well written, interesting book.

Another beautiful book is Venice, the Masque of Italy, by Marcel Brion. The title is taken from lines of Byron:

"The pleasant place of all festivity,
The revel of the earth, the masque of Italy!"

Beginning with the history of Venice, the author goes on to describe it and to illustrate his descriptions with a bountiful supply of color photographs by Edwin Smith.

One of the most charming books in many a month is Tangaroa's Godechild by Olaf Ruhen. The author was born and raised on the coast of New Zealand, and this is the story of his unworried childhood and his young manhood when he became a fisherman. He writes of the sea and the creatures of the sea with affection and understanding. This book will prove a delightful experience for many readers.

There is the usual compliment of fiction, including several mysteries, and one western. Enjoy, enjoy!

MONTEREY COUNTY SYMPHONY CONCERT

John Gosling, conductor and director

GUEST ARTIST

Jean Casadesu, pianist

It was bruited about the Peninsula for weeks that Tuesday night's Monterey County Symphony concert was going to be a smash. For the most part, the audience which crowded into Sunset School auditorium was not disappointed. As usual, the program gave general pleasure, and there was something for everyone: the new, the tried and true, and midway between.

The new—"Music For Orchestra" by Morris Haigh, co-winner of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra's Composer Competition Award in 1962—had something for everyone, too, including the listener who takes contemporary patterns of music, and the unorthodox interval (probably completely orthodox these days) in his stride, and the listener who feels more at home with a less intellectually demanding harmony. The orchestra acquitted itself well, and Mr. Haigh was present to receive the warm applause of the audience.

There are those who prefer Ravel's original version, for piano, of his "Le Tombeau de Couperin," with its subtlety and fragility, and have never quite reconciled themselves to the orchestrated version. Nevertheless, last night's performance was a delight to the ear, the lyric passages for harp and woodwinds exquisite, and one's only possible criticism that of an occasional dragging, as though the instruments were almost, but not quite, air-borne.

The tried and true piece de resistance was bound to be a sure-fire hit: a much-heralded young pianist with a famous name; everyone's easy familiarity with the Tchaikovsky Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, Opus 23. On the other hand, a situation of this kind makes it more difficult for all concerned; anticipation and expectation run high. Young Jean Casadesu undoubtedly has a shining career ahead of him, and his stature as a pianist will grow with it; but one cannot help comparing him, to his disadvantage, with his father, Robert. However, his playing had the skill, excitement and promise to bring the audience to its feet at the end of the final chords, although this standing ovation was surely, in equally great measure, a recognition of the superb, cohesive performance of the orchestra, which has grown to such maturity under John Gosling's direction.

Tomorrow night at 8:15 in Sunset School auditorium, the 70-voice University of Southern California Choir, directed by Dr. James Vail, will give a concert sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club and the Carmel High School music department.

unpleasant; it is simply ineffective.

This is not to say that there are not performances ranging from good to excellent (and nobody is what you might call "bad"). Rosamond Zammit, who possesses as fine a dramatic talent as the Peninsula is favored with, offers an exceptional performance as the distraught granddaughter, Evelyn Foreman.

Rosamond gets under the skin of the character she portrays and clings there with the tenacity and artfulness of the devil the congregation determines to exorcise from the young woman. Rosamond's performance—wistful, lusty, licentious, pathetic, delicate and so exquisitely detailed—is great.

Mendel Johnsen displays more of this same accomplished finesse, an actor who has command of the infinite language of the theater, the skills and arts which can make acting such a warm experience.

Knowing the character is not enough, if he cannot be explained, Johnsen makes the role of Zitorsky believable, a complex, contradictory, amusing, self-deprecating and cautious Jew, both fascinated and frightened by the probability of an embodied devil lurking in the sacred confines of his desolate synagogue.

The rest of the cast is quite sincere, some, however, seldom rising beyond the minor triumph of mastering to a degree the Yiddish dialogue.

At times, they all need to be jabbed with a needle, to startle them into an intensity which the play demands. The pace is frequently so lethargic, so unspirited, so lacking in earnestness, that I could only accept the performance as a recollection of something occurring long, long ago, and to somebody else. Rosamond, when she holds the stage, burns fiercely, and so should they all. It is not a parlor comedy.

The stage arrangement is something new in Fred Rider's seemingly unconscious evolution from the theater-in-the-round to something surpassing the platform stage but not taking the direction of the old proscenium. I would have to call this a "belt" production, ranging across the circle from one pole to another, with occasional traffic jams in the middle.

It is a tricky, though intriguing, experiment he is apparently essaying. When he has the action nailed against one wall or the other, it is not unlike a proscenium production—with the audience sitting in the wings staring at an assortment of profiles and backs.

As a matter of fact, the audience is uniquely situated on either side—not in a circle—and the problems of blocking and movement must be baffling; at least, nothing indicates that Fred has solved them.

I would urge him, seriously urge him, to stay within the limitations of the circle, for this is the physical circumstance of the theater, and not try to pretend that they do not exist. It is a wearying thing to have the principal action taking place time after time on the other side of someone's back. Theater-in-the-round requires continuous fluidity, with the cast moving circularly, not progressing across the chord, as if they were slicing a pie with their paces.

These are grave faults, though not disasters; but they rob much earnest effort, quite a bit of good acting, and a damned good play of a chance really to come off. —L.R.

White Oaks

Auditions for the summer season at White Oaks Summer Theatre will be held Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. Major summer productions will be "The Philadelphia Story," "The Fantasticks," and "Little Mary Sunshine," and, in the children's theatre, "Greensleeves Magic."

The "Tenth Man" is a rich and sincere play wrought out of the entanglement of the Hebraic ethos: a deep and personal sense of tragedy haunted by melancholy wit.

Without the wit we have the savage Greeks all over again, caught on a stage where tragedy—a noble, awesome, almost beautiful fate—majestically stamps about, crushing Man, Time and Empire with earnest, indisputable logic. The Greeks like logic, and sorrow they have found to be a most logical and tremendous emotion. Everything is satisfied when they have exhaustively indulged themselves in it.

The Jew, however, mistrusts logic, and sorrow to him is only an emotional convenience in the ritual of exorcising the pangs of tragedy, something not quite complete until he has denied it with the sharp edge of wit. A Jew is the only man who can laugh at himself. Sincerely. If he could not, the hound of tragedy would ages ago have clawed him into madness.

Paddy Chayefsky has put it down the way it is. Telling the story of a small and shabby congregation in an impoverished synagogue in Mineola, Long Island, he evokes personal tragedy in each character. But it is not overwhelming because its force is fragmented by the intimate way in which each embraces his own and turns compassionately to a confused contest with the morbid tragedy of another—the schizophrenic granddaughter of an elderly member of the congregation. The play is a difficult thing to handle. If the moments of somberness and sorrow are not fired with some intensity, the flares and escapades of humor seem insipid. The playwright adroitly handles the counterpoint of humor and pathos—each accentuates the other in fine proportion and sequence. But a cast must be inspired to come down hard on the alternating accents. While the cast of this production produces enjoyable lingual accents, they seem not to be well-guided through the mysteries of dramatic accents. The result is not

Susan Mosolf Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. George Mosolf of Carmel have announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan, and Jeffrey L. Hanscomb, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hanscomb of Monterey.

The wedding will take place 20 April in the Church of the Wayfarer, followed by a reception in the Garden Room of the church. Susan has asked her sister, Pat, and Pauline Aliotti of Monterey, to be her bridesmaids. Jack Chalkley of Carmel will perform best man duties for Jeffrey, and Jim Wester and Joseph Baylis of Monterey will be the ushers.

Susan, a 1959 graduate of Carmel High School, attended Monterey Peninsula College, and since then has been a secretary with a San Francisco finance company.

Jeffrey, formerly of Michigan, is a graduate of Owosso High School, served with the United States Air Force in this country and in the Orient, and studied business administration at Michigan State University. Engaged in business in Monterey, he has been active in the city's civic affairs and the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce, and is this year's co-chairman of the Peninsula Cancer Fund drive.

Woodrow Wilson Fellow

James Fraser Cocks, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cocks, Jr., of Carmel, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for 1963-64. Jim, a senior at Occidental College, majoring in history, is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic society, and Phi Alpha Theta, national history fraternity. He was also the winner of a Heritage Foundation Fellowship and a Colonial Dames scholarship in 1962. During his freshman and sophomore years he was on the college track team.

The Woodrow Wilson Fellowships are designed to assist in the training of future college teachers, covering tuition and fees for the first year at the graduate school of the Fellow's choice, also a stipend of $1500 and dependency allowances.

Something In Chinese

Recently in Whitney's house of booze and fun on Ocean Avenue, a young stranger was seated at the bar busily engaged in scribbling mysterious lines in a thick ruled note book. Little Tommy Howell, bellhop at the La Playa Hotel, sitting alongside, solved the mystery and alleviated our curiosity. Peering nosily over the fellow's shoulder he inquired in his inimitable Newfoundland accent as to just what was going on. "Think this is a school room?" he cracked. The young man, an Army Language student, went briskly on with his work. "Well, in a way it is," he muttered. "Chinese," he said. "I'm studying Chinese." Tommy silently digested this for a moment. "Do you mean," he demanded incredulously, "that this is the best place you can find to study Chinese?" "Yep," was the reply. "I simply cannot stand a library or study hall where everything is quiet except for that nerve-racking flick swish flick swish of people turning pages. It bugs me. In here I can feel the good fellowship, and the warm wash of conversation rising and falling puts me at ease. I guess it's something like a teenager doing his homework with the television on."

"Can you write me something in Chinese?" Tommy asked. "Sure," was the reply. "What'll we do?" They conferred and soon Tommy was in possession of a string of Chinese calligraphy. Written from the top of the page and incidentally left-handed it ran, "Hello, mother dear, I love you very much, can you send me five or ten dollars?" "Now, can I send this by wire?" Tommy asked. "Only if you could find an interpreter or if the operator knew Chinese," Tommy stared at it a moment, then back at the student. "So that's the way it goes," he growled as he reached for his beer. "Even if my mother knew Chinese, she wouldn't get it, huh? So what's the good of knowing how to send a message in Chinese if neither your mother nor the operator can understand it." Tommy stared broodily ahead. Obviously his evening was ruined.

Carlsons Returning Soon

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome E. Carlson are expected home at the end of March, after nearly three months in Guadalajara. Mrs. Carlson writes the Pine Cone, "It will be nice to be back in Carmel, although my heart aches at parting with Mexico."

Too Much Salt

A country store keeper left his shop in charge of an inexperienced relative while he went wholesaling into Des Moines.

When he returned, he found half of his merchandise shoved to one side and the area filled with salt. Salt in boxes, salt in bags... salt in hundred pound sacks.

"Good Heavens," the owner ejaculated, "We'll never be able to get rid of this much salt. What in tunket happened?"

"I don't know," his cousin replied wearily. "I was just sitting here minding my own business when this feller came in. I told him we didn't need any, but he kept talking. The barn is filled with it too." He went on hopelessly, "My God how that feller could sell salt."

A similar occurrence took place at the Mission Ranch, Carmel's one and only night club. Bert Dienelt, the owner, had gone off to Mexico leaving the place in charge of his then partner, Johnny De Paolo, an experienced restaurateur.

Upon his return, he found that Johnny had purchased 100 cases of Vermouth. "Good grief," Bert commented. "We don't use a case of Vermouth a year."

"I know, I know," Johnny said weakly. "But it was such a good buy I couldn't resist the price."

Sea Bee Duty

Monterey's Naval Reserve Sea Bees (Construction Division) have moved out to join other units from the 12th Naval District in two weeks' training at Port Hueneme, the Navy's West Coast training center for these famous units. The divisions will operate during the period as if on active duty.

From this area have gone members Melvin L. Blevins, George R. Pullman and Clarence D. Baer, Jr.

Shower For Niki

Mrs. Christopher Wilkin (Niki Budd) was guest of honor at a baby shower Sunday afternoon at the Mission Fields home of Mrs. Vincent Duggan. Co-hostesses were Kit Duggan, Ginger Laky (who had made a crib to hold the presents), and Billie Fritsche.

Guests enjoying tea and scones included Mrs. Paul Budd, Mrs. Wilbur Wilkin, Mrs. Bud Cunningham, Mrs. Don Rowe, Mrs. Alvin Hurst, Mardi Lloyd, Lynn Porter, Pat Mosolf, Tina Dominici, Honey Williams, Tasha Doner, Elaine Kachavos, and Janice Way. Pam Petersen sent a shower gift from the University of California at Davis.

Honor For Colonel Kinard

Colonel William H. Kinard, Jr., a long-time resident of Carmel, and a recent graduate of the Army Language School, Presidio of Monterey, California, was presented a certificate of achievement as the top scholar in his Persian class during graduation ceremonies. In an earlier private ceremony, the Persian Department had presented Colonel Kinard with a duplicate certificate and a diploma written in his newly-acquired language.

The Colonel's wife, Jane, is the daughter of Mrs. J. G. Whitesides of Carmel, and the Kinards have three children: a daughter, Mrs.

S. B. Goessling, of Seaside; and two sons, Lieutenant William H. Kinard III, now stationed at Ft. Bragg, N. C.; and R. Christopher Kinard, a West Point cadet. Lieutenant Kinard is a graduate of Carmel High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College before entering the Military Academy. Both sons follow their father's footsteps; Colonel Kinard is a 1936 graduate of West Point.

Mrs. Holmberg Returns

Joanne S. Holmberg, who two and one-half years ago owned and operated, with her husband, the Continental Antique Shop on Mission Street, then moved to San Francisco, is back in Carmel again, and eager to see her old friends.

She hopes they will drop by to visit her at her home on the southeast corner of Monte Verde and Ninth, which she will soon open as a guest residence.

PTA Potluck

The Carmel Sunset School P-TA will hold a family potluck supper tonight at 6 p.m. in the Sunset cafeteria. Paper plates, cups, silverware, coffee and punch will be supplied by the P-TA. All families with children at Sunset are urged to attend. If you have not been contacted by the room-mother, please call Mrs. Ray Benson, general chairman, at MA 4-2533. Other members of the evening's committee are Mrs. Stanley Block, Mrs. Donald E. Berry, Mrs. Ray Bauman, Mrs. James Hill, Mrs. Richard Robinson, Mrs. Raymond Kelly, Mrs. William McClelland, Mrs. Harold Willis, Mrs. Clem Ale, Mrs. Bernard Laiolo, Mrs. Dexter Whitcomb, Mrs. Don Campbell, Mr. John Melville, and Mrs. George Walker.

Ranching Note

Stuyvesant Fish, Carmel, recently purchased an Alberdeen-Angus bull from Henry L. Griffin of Auburn.

Recent Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Jennings of Carmel Valley became the parents of a daughter, Carol Elizabeth, on 4 March.

James Bryan, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Milan E. Wakefield of Carmel, was born 7 March.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. William F. Lemos on 8 March.

All three babies were born at the Peninsula Community Hospital.

Honorable Mention Prize

Mrs. Florence Blake Smith, who winters in Carmel and summers in Story, Wyoming, recently received an honorable mention award from Pageant Press, New York, for her book, "Ow Chips 'n' Cactus," the story of three years spent on a Wyoming homestead, in its best Best Books of 1962 contest.

Mrs. Smith returned to Carmel last week from 10 days in Hawaii.

Harvard Ph. D. For Pat

Patricia Merivale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Merivale of Carmel, and one of Carmel High School's distinguished alumnae (class of 1951), is among the first women to receive a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Harvard University. This is a new departure; until last fall, women studying with Harvard's faculty of arts and sciences received their degrees from Radcliffe College.

Pat, whose field of study was comparative literature, was one of 16 women to be granted a Ph. D. in the mid-year degree list. She will have her doctoral diploma ("with suitable variation in the gender of the Latin prose," according to the university news office) mailed to her, since no Commencement exercises are held at mid-year.

Pat also holds an A.B. degree from the University of California at Berkeley, and B.A. and M.A. degrees from Oxford University, England. At present she is teaching English literature at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

The Lively Arts

Nature Film

What natural wonders are lost when a forest falls under a power saw attack, when a prairie is turned into a suburb, these are the subjects of the superb color photography of Karl H. Maslowski, famed Ohio conservationist, who will present His work, "Gone With the Wilderness," at Sunset Auditorium tonight, under the joint auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Unified School District.

KARL H. MASLOWSKI

Maslowski's film footage has been used in Disney's True Life series, by MGM studios, and various conservation agencies.

This vivid and intimate film, in probing such unsuspected sources of natural wonder as the value of a dead tree in a wilderness area, brings off a lively and brilliant experience.

Kiwanis

The Carmel and Carmel Valley Kiwanis clubs have undertaken to sponsor a troupe of Explorer Scouts in Carmel, according to Howell Armor, scribe for the local branch of Kiwanis.

Pratini Show

The one-man show of paintings by Edo Pratini is still on exhibit at the Galerie de Tours, Lincoln Street near Ocean Avenue. A Californian, Pratini trained at the Chouinard Art Institute, and also taught there for several years; then studied in Rome and at the University of Stockholm in Sweden.

Returning to this country he worked with a young "Bauhaus" group designing unusual homes and experimenting with architectural principles.

Pratini has evolved a distinctive style which has caused many critics to call him a "modern Renaissance" painter.

The Galerie de Tours is open daily except Wednesday, from noon to 5 p.m.

Art Members

Two new members were elected to the Carmel Art Association at the meeting of the Board of Directors on 11 March: Edward Norton Ward of Pacific Grove, and Nong (Robert Ham) of Monterey. Nong was admitted as a sculptor in 1962.

AFA Lecture

Saturday at 8 p.m. in the American Federation of Arts gallery, Professor Wendell Cole of the drama department of Stanford University will speak on new architecture, illustrated with slides showing the latest developments in theatre building throughout the world. This is the second of a lecture series on "Theatre of the Immediate Future."

Cinema 6

A new series of Cinema 6 films at the Monterey Neighborhood Center, Lighthouse and Dickman streets, will open Sunday at 8 p.m. with one showing of Laurence Olivier's "Henry V." Other films scheduled in the series include "Hiroshima, Mon Amour" and Federico Fellini's "I Vitelloni."

Membership cards for the series, sponsored by the Monterey Recreation Department, may be ordered from Monterey Neighborhood Center, or single admissions may be purchased at the door.

Letters . . .

You know better, or should. (In the editorial of 14 March.)

And you must set us an example. Now, I'll expect a retraction and a reform.

Yours for more and better editorials,
Abjectly and Dejectedly,
Thora Waldsen

(EDITOR'S COMMENT: Now what kind of a proposition is that? It sort of makes me feel ashamed.

However, I will kind of try to speak better, real better.)

A MAN OF NERVE is one who can murder his mother and father and then throw himself on the mercy of the court.

Kathleen Mapstead Wed

Kathleen Mapstead, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mapstead of Carmel, became the bride of Peter Newhall Chesebrough on 10 March at the Church of the Wayfarer. The Reverend K. Fillmore Gray performed the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Kathleen wore a floor-length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, and a chapel veil. She carried a cascade of lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Phyllis Ferguson, her maid of honor, wore a yellow organza over taffeta sheath, and carried white iris and bouvardia. Bridesmaids Ardeann Wright, Cherri Shepherd, and Kathleen Henderson wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor.

Peter, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Chesebrough of Los Altos, asked his brother, James, to serve as his best man. Ushers were Ralph Turner and Bailey Dorris, both of Pebble Beach, and Tim Tantou of Los Altos.

Mrs. Mapstead chose an aqua blue ensemble with brown accessories and a brown cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a beige silk ensemble and a brown cymbidium orchid.

A reception at La Playa Hotel followed the ceremony. The young couple will live in Idaho Falls, until Peter, who is with the United States Submarine Service, completes his assignment at Idaho.

... The Wrap-Up

CHURCH USE PERMIT: A possibility that the bitter use permit battle of two years ago involving the City and All Saints' Church over temporary occupancy of church classrooms by the Bishop Kip parochial school, may be reenacted, has recently arisen. The two-year use permit expires in June of this year, and the rector, Rev. David Hill, in a message to the parish in the March church bulletin, questioned the city's right to limit the permit. It has subsequently become clear that the school has obtained no buildings, no campus, and no place to go, although overtures have been made to the Carmel Unified School District for temporary use of some classrooms at Sunset School. Some of the trustees of the Kip School and some of the vestrymen of the church, at an open parish meeting a week ago Tuesday, gave clear evidence that they felt the church would demonstrate a breach of faith if an extension of the permit were sought.

POSTAGE STAMP: Postmaster General Day is reported to have decided against the issuance of a commemorative stamp honoring the 250th anniversary of the birth of Father Junipero Serra. He seeks to distinguish between historical and religious significance. Serra had both. He was a saintly person as well as an instrument of empire. The chain of missions he founded was instigated to meet and thwart a Russian movement from Alaska southwards, which is historical any way you slice it. The City Council recently passed a resolution petitioning the Postmaster General to issue the commemorative Serra stamp.

SISTER CITY: Mayor Eben Whittlesey yesterday had a nice conversation with Don Carlos Robles, Spanish Director-General of Information, who proposed that Carmel, where Father Serra died, and Petra, Mallorca, where he was born, become sister cities. The inspiration was a festival planned in Petra for early June of this year, not a diplomatic move on the part of Spain to heal over the gaping wound of the postage stamp disaster...

Funeral Oration

About one month late, Fred W. Sharp, City Administrator of Pomona, will deliver to the Monterey County Planning Council conference next Saturday an address entitled "Downtown — or Nothing." It is expected that some officials from the City of Monterey will be present.

Sharp, a graduate of UC with a major in political science, for nearly twenty years engaged in public administration, and presently president of the City Managers' department of the League of California Cities, has remarked on his topic, "This does not assume that I am necessarily a 'downtown man,' but the connotation will be that without a healthy core center nothing else can thrive."

The all-day event, to be held at Asilomar, will commence at 9:00 a.m., and will be open to the public.

Food For Thought

A major Ocean Avenue lease is about to change hands, going to a successful local business man now engaged in other fields of endeavor. It may change a long-established identity.

Where There's Life

By Andre Hope

Meanwhile — back to Lent! I have a quite devout friend, who, surprisingly enough, likes fish so well that he gives it up for Lent. Salad combinations of fish and avocados are the ones highest on the list. For instance, this bit of exotica: avocado halves stuffed with very small oysters (both beautifully chilled) served with chili sauce, or, for the devotee, lemon juice and a dash of freshly ground pepper. I know, I know, it sounds weird, but try it. There is an equally wild concoction of mine. On a bed of finely shredded, chilled lettuce make a wheel of sliced avocados and papaya, alternating (pineapple may be substituted for the papaya). Pile canned, drained, mandarin orange sections in the center and surround with small pink shrimp or crab legs. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and lime juice. Serve with sour cream or mayonnaise on the side. Actually, I prefer the former, or just the simplicity of the citrus juice. Many people who are distressed (isn't that a nice Victorian expression?) by avocado are made so by the fact that it has rather a high fat content which makes the addition of oily dressings both unnecessary and undesirable. . . . If oysters leave you less than enthusiastic, here's a goody that you cannot fail to admire. It's particularly nice to serve to the lady of the moment or the one whom you hope to make (more or less) permanent. Just visit Graeme Harrison's Oriental Shop on Lincoln in Carmel and ask for the special canned oysters; one to a can — each containing its very own cultured pearl (no lemon juice, please!).

In case his majesty is out on the seas doing battle (somewhat green-faced but determined) with a salmon, here's a way to make him feel it was all worth-while (you can even substitute the swordfish he had to stop and buy at the fish store, in case he lost). Have salmon or swordfish steaks cut a good inch thick. Make a sauce of mayonnaise, Worcestershire, chopped parsley, olives, pickle relish, green onions, bell pepper, fresh ground pepper and a pinch of curry. Add a bit of sherry and quite a bit of lemon juice. Put each steak on heavy duty aluminum foil, smother with sauce, dot with butter and wrap so that nothing can escape. Bake in a moderate oven for about 25 minutes. Poke with skewer to be sure it is very tender. Serve in the foil with new potatoes tossed in sweet butter and parsley, and a green salad with rather tart dressing. Don't forget a rose or dry white wine. That's our fish story for today.

Meanwhile — back on dry land; a clean garden is an easy garden to care for. Now is the time for hard work so that later you can have fun in the sun and no weeds 'midst the seeds.

A small neat sign in a Carmel shop in the Court of the Golden Bough proclaims in small neat letters, "An Unadvertised Sale."

In the wonderful flamboyant 20's a group of Hollywood undertakers, mildly incensed at losing business in the rush to Forest Lawn, erected a huge, neon-lit sign on the crest of the Hollywood Hills stating . . . "Morticians: The Undertakers Who Do Not Advertise."

No Vote For Voters in Vacancies

effective there would remain nobody to perform his various constitutional powers — the signing of official documents, taking of depositions, administration of oaths, etc. — since the powers of his deputies would simultaneously expire with his authority.

Forty-five minutes later, the Council emerged from their session, announcing, through Mayor Whittlesey, their intention to make appointments to fill both vacancies, rather than call a special election. It was also stated that appointees in both instances had been determined, but that no announcement of their names would be made until the resignations of Whitaker and the City Clerk actually had become effective. Furthermore, emphasized Whittlesey, the appointees themselves would not be notified in advance. The assurance that they would accept, explained Councilman Frank Putnam, had previously been obtained from the appointees, as well as all candidates interviewed during the past few weeks.

Very few bets are being taken that Robert Spencer will not be appointed to the Council seat, and Arthur Plaxton, Assistant City Clerk, will not be appointed City Clerk. Those who are making such wagers are also betting that the world will end tomorrow.

PAX ROMANA

"I want to know who they are," angrily insisted a member. "One of them might be a friend of mine."
